We can help you

Wherever you are in the world or wherever your plane lands*, just give us a call with your emergency fuel request and we can help you with:

- ad-hoc fuel request at short notice
- flight diversion fuel requests
- airport confirmation of your Shell Aviation account at non-contracted locations

During out of office hours on weekdays, your calls will be directed to the next available fuel account manager on other side of the globe. During out of office hours on weekends, your call will be directed to our expert helpline staff in London. Our helpline staff will endeavor to liaise with the airfield to arrange a fuel request on your behalf.

When you call the Shell Aviation Out of Office Hours Helpline, please be prepared to provide the information below:
